Jodi Field

Jodi has been a Nurse Home Visitor with our Nurse-Family Partnership Program since 2014. From 2006-2014, she worked with families with young children as a Public Health Nurse in our Prenatal Care Coordination and Healthcheck programs. Jodi completed the UW Infant Mental Health Certificate Program in 2017-2018. Jodi has always been a strong client advocate in her nursing practice. The Nurse-Family Partnership Model has allowed her to really focus on the dyad of mother and child. After completing the IMHC, Jodi has been able to apply her knowledge to help families delve deeper into their childhoods and explore the relationships they are building with their own child. She is able to use the skills she gained to help parents build self-confidence in their parenting ability and to help them identify the importance of infant mental health for their child. Jodi puts her heart and soul into the work she does with families and looks for those small successes!
